OUR STORY

How Tres Amigos Cantina CAME TO BE

Brandon area residents were thrilled with the February 2008 opening of its newest restaurant, Tres Amigos Cantina. However, few knew the story of how this exciting, new Mexican cantina came to be.

It was the day after Christmas 2007. Joe Morales, Anthony Mundi and Andrew Purdy, all managers at the former Don Pablo's at this location were closing the restaurant for the last time. The Brandon restaurant was slated to close after the chain filed for bankruptcy.

As the liquidation company moved all the restaurant equipment and furniture out of the building, the three managers watched as the reality of their situation began to set in. Then, New York real estate investor, Larry Fraioli, the owner of the property, called. He couldn't see allowing an ongoing restaurant operation employing a significant number of people to be dismantled and boarded up.

Two very stressful hours later, he phoned again to tell the trio he had struck a deal with the liquidation company and instructed them roll all the equipment back into the restaurant. He then stunned them with the news...he wanted all three men to come on board as partners. What started out as a very dark day for Joe, Anthony and Andrew turned out to be one of the brightest.

The next day, Fraioli flew to Tampa to meet with his new partners to begin the work of re-opening the restaurant.

The three new manager/partners decided on the name Tres Amigos Cantina. With an abundance of expertise and integrity, these new restaurant owners have been welcoming customers, old and new to their beautiful, new, full service restaurant which features authentic Mexican cuisine, homemade salsa, a lively atmosphere, friendly service and the best Margaritas in town!

Update – Three years later:

Our first year in business was challenging, to say the least. The downturn in the economy certainly didn't help. Thankfully, many of our loyal customers have returned and many new ones have discovered and supported us throughout these tough, economic times. Andrew has since moved on to a new restaurant management challenge, leaving Joe and Anthony to handle things at Tres Amigos. We finally installed signs on the building in late 2009 and added an outdoor patio in the summer of 2010. We thank all of you, our loyal customers and new fans. Hopefully, our toughest years are behind us and we are here to stay.

Our coupons and special offers are available by giving us your e-mail address so you can continue to enjoy one of life's pleasures...dining out with family and friends at reasonable prices.

Join us on a Wednesday night, our "Customer Appreciation Night". We offer reduced prices on tacos and drinks. The crowded party atmosphere really helps break up the week!

Thanks for coming in – we truly appreciate your business!

Joe and Anthony
